WALCHER

Lutheran Church in America, 1100 E 55th St, Chicago, IL 60616, Rodger D Florreich, Assistant Archivist, letter dated 14 Apr 1983 - "It is of interest to note that the Reverend Daniel Walcher was only licensed and never ordained by the NC Synod."
Enclosed with the letter was a sheet from: Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, Onward, Goes the Pilgrim Band, "Antecedents of the IL Synod", A dissertation submitted to the Graduate School in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree "Master of Sacred Theology", the Historical Field by the Reverend Theodore William Brosche, Maywood, IL, Apr 1950. "One of the first Lutheran ministers who ever set foot on IL soil was the Rev Daniel Walcher. He was the Licentiate of the NC Synod, and made a visit to this state in the summer of 1825. He visited the settlement In Union Co, spending several of the summer months with the people there, preaching for them in the German language and baptizing their children. He traveled the whole way from Carolina and home again on horse-back. He had many 'hair-breadth' escapes, especially with the wolves. One night he had lost his way and could find no house. Wolves came near devouring him and his faithful old black horse. The only way he kept them off was by gathering sticks and keeping a large fire burning all night. His license was not afterwards renewed by the Synod. He became a farmer, and subsequently removed to IL, and lived and died and is buried near Hillsboro in Montgomery Co."

Edgewood Cemetery, Litchfield, IL - Originally the Kessinger Burial Ground
Aug 1859, Elfred Boan and Josiah and Cynthia Kessinger gave the land to the Mt Zion Lutheran Church. Ralph Scherer gave his land with the family plot to the church and the graves were moved to this cemetery.

Personal Reminiscences of Lutheranism – by Rev S W Harkey D D

The following article is copied from the Lutheran Observer, published Philadelphia PA…Rev Daniel Walcher, spoken of in the article as the first Lutheran Minister of IL, resided near Litchfield IL, and to the reader, the more interesting because the aged widow of the Rev Daniel Walcher is now living and has been for several years, here in Pana…

(Rev S W Harkey) I have stated that my first visit to IL was made in the summer of 1838 and I was fourteen days in coming from Frederick, MD to St Louis MO, stopping two days in Cincinnati, having traveled by stage and private conveyance to Hillsboro IL

The prairie of IL were then in all their primitive glory, stretching out many miles in all directions, grass and flowers beneath and the Heavens above, no houses, farms, roads and often not a tree as far as the eyes could see. A grand sight to the newcomer. Every now and then a heard of deer bounding off gracefully over the vast plain as you travel on and numerous flocks of prairie chickens making things lively for you.

I landed at my father's house, in Hillsboro IL, on the 24th day of July 1838, just eight years and two months from the time I left home in NC as a poor farmer's boy, for Gettysburg PA to study for the ministry, during all which time I had not seen my parents, or any of the family and was now Pastor of the Lutheran Church of Frederick MD.

I found a large number of old neighbors and friends in this part of the state, who had emigrated from Carolina and I spent a month among them, preaching almost every day in some school-house or private home.

The Rev Daniel Scherer had come to Hillsboro in the fall of 1832 and had been looking after the "Lost Sheep" of our "Household of Faith" in almost all parts of Southern and Central IL.

The first settlement of Lutherans was made in IL, Union Co, 1817, in the southern part of the state of a few years later, settlements began to be made in Montgomery Co. The first Lutheran Church, some five miles from Jonesboro called St Johns. It was of logs, not unlike the log cabins of the pioneers. A neat frame Church House in which I, myself, had preached, now occupies the same site and is still called St Johns.

The first Lutheran Minister that ever set foot in IL soil, was the Rev Daniel Walcher, licentiate of the Synod of NC. He made a visit to this state in the summer of 1825, especially to the settlements of Union Co, spending several months with these people, preaching for them in the German language, baptizing their children, and comforting them by the Word of God.

He traveled the whole distance from Cabarrus Co NC and home again on horseback. I remember to have heard him preach in Carolina when I was a boy and tell about the country and the people and relate some of his adventures and "hair breath" escapes, which he had made, especially in crossing rivers and swamps, and how one night he was compelled to camp out alone, having lost his way and unable to find a hours, he and his faithful black horse, came near being devoured by wolves. Fortunately he came to a place where some one had camped the night before and left some fire. A pack of wolves came and howled around him and the only way he kept them off was by gathering sticks of wood and keeping a large fire blazing all night.

This man later removed to Montgomery Co and lived on a farm, the land adjoining the Corporation of what is now the City of Litchfield, but then a wild prairie.

He died and is buried not far from this place.

I preached in a lone school house on this same spot where this city of 5,600 inhabitants is now located.

Not long after Mr Walcher left Union Co, a European German Minister names Schoenbert, also from NC, whom I remembered personally as having staid for two weeks at my father's home, visited these people and became their Pastor…

5/03 Reunion

I realize there is some difference of opinion on this name. Perhaps it could be Blackwelder - but the marriage certificate (xerox) I have from Montgomery Co. Ill (1850) has the Bride's name as Mrs. Mary Ann Williams which indicates a previous marriage for her - doesn't show her real maiden name.

DESCRIPTION OF ROWAN COUNTY

The heirs of the eight noblemen to whom Charles II had granted Carolina in 1663 found that vast territory an unprofitable and unruly charge. In 1729, therefore, the owners of seven of the eight equal undivided shares offered to sell all their interest in Carolina to the Crown, and the proposition was accepted. In the following year the purchase was completed, the seven proprietors, who surrendered their claims receiving 17,500 pounds sterling, and the relinquishment of the lands being confirmed by an act of Parliament. John, Lord Carteret, afterwards created Earl Granville, alone of the eight lords retained his share.1 In 1744, his part of Carolina was set off for him by grant from George II, all the territory lying between the Virginia line on the north and the parallel of 36° 34' on the south being allotted to him. The eastern boundary of this immense tract was the Atlantic Ocean and the western, the Mississippi River.2 At this time the portion of this great west of the present eastern boundaries of Randolph, Guilford, and Rockingham counties was just being entered by enterprising settlers. The part included in the Piedmont is blessed by nature with countless streams and an endless succession of hills and valleys which increase as

The Scotch-Irish were soon followed by another stream of immigrants the Germans who had previously located in Pennsylvania. The route which the German and Scotch-Irish settlers took in making the overland journey from Pennsylvania to western North Carolina is described by Colonel Saunders as follows:

On Jeffrey's map, a copy of which is in the Congressional Library at Washington City, there is plainly laid down a road called "the Great Road from the Yadkin River through Virginia to Philadelphia, distant 435 miles." It ran from Philadelphia through Lancaster and York to Winchester, thence up the Shenandoah Valley, crossing the Fluvanna River to Looney's Ferry, thence to Staunton River, and down the river through the Blue Ridge, thence southward, crossing Dan River below the mouth of Mayo River, thence still southward near the Moravian settlement to the Yadkin River, just above the mouth of Linville Creek and about ten miles above the mouth of Reedy Creek.9

The Germans did not extend their settlements quite so far west as the Scotch-Irish did. They were industrious and economical in their habits and formed a valuable part of the population. As the laws were written and expounded in English and all public business was transacted in that language, the Germans were incapable, in most instances, of participating in public affairs.l0 The process whereby they were naturalized was the taking of several oaths prescribed by law and the repeating and subscribing of the test. The test, as entered on the court records of the county, was in this form:

I, A. B., do believe in my conscience that there is not any transubstantiation in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper or in the elements of bread and wine at or after the consecration thereof by any person whatsoever.11

Among the early German settlers appear the names of Bernhardt, Heilig, Meisenheimer, Beard, Mull, Rintelman (Rendleman), Layrle (Lyerly), Kuhn (Coon), Friese, Eisenhauer, Suther, Winecoff, Cress, Walcher, Harkey, Savitz, Henkel, Moser, Braun (Brown), Lingle, Fisher, Berger, Lippard, Peeler, Holtzhauer, Kluttz, Roseman, Foet, Shupping, Beam, and Buin.

County Records on Microfilm

The History Room's genealogical holdings are concentrated on the area that comprised "Old Rowan." Rowan County was formed from Anson County in 1753. Anson had been created out of Bladen in 1750.

By 1836, five counties had been carved from the original Rowan County: Surry (1770), Burke (1777), Iredell (1788), Davidson (1822), and Davie (1836).

Twenty-eight counties were later created out of these first six: Guilford (1770), Wilkes (1777), Randolph (1779), Rockingham (1785), Stokes (1789), Buncombe (1791), Ashe (1799), Haywood (1808), Macon (1828), Yancey (1833), Henderson (1838), Cherokee (1839), Caldwell (1841), Cleveland (1841), McDowell (1842), Alexander (1847), Forsyth (1849), Watauga (1849), Jackson (1851), Madison (1851), Polk (1855), Alleghany (1859), Clay (1861), Transylvania (1861), Mitchell (1861), Swain (1871), Graham (1872), and Avery (1911).

The migration path into Rowan (from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, and New Jersey down the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia) is also given some coverage but not to the same extent as the western North Carolina holdings. There are also materials regarding Tennessee, Kentucky, and Georgia, the areas of the first immigration out of Rowan, and some dealing with eastern North Carolina.

The History Room is currently building its collection of microfilmed records from those counties that sprang from old Rowan. Deeds, marriage bonds, court minutes, cohabitation bonds, bastardy bonds, records of road overseers, tax lists, etc, may be found in the Room's microfilm cabinets. Some counties' holdings are more complete than others. (The closer to present-day Rowan, the more complete the Room's holdings are likely to be.)

Counties represented in the microfilmed county records include: Alexander, Anson, Ashe, Avery, Blade, Buncombe, Burke, Cabarrus, Caswell, Caldwell, Cumberland, Cleveland, Catawba, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Guilford, Granville, Iredell, Lincoln, Macon, Mecklenburg, Mitchell, Montgomery, Randolph, Rockingham, Rutherford, Stanly, Stokes, Surry, Union, Warren, Watauga, Wilkes, Yadkin, and Yancey.

McCubbins Collection

Mrs. Mamie (Mary Louisa) Gaskill McCubbins spent nearly fifty years compiling research notes for her anticipated, comprehensive book on early Rowan County families. She knew that this book would be the work for which she'd be remembered. The book was never completed, but "Miss Mamie's" research notes are consulted on a regular basis.

Consisting of more than 150,000 abstracts of court records, wills, deeds, and Bible records, and arranged alphabetically by surname, the McCubbins collection is one of the most cited sources in western North Carolina genealogy.

Visitors to the History Room are asked to contribute photocopies of their own research notes, family group sheets, and pedigree charts to the ever-expanding "annex" files stored among Miss Mamie's originals.

Family Histories

Nearly 2,000 individual family histories, ranging from the handwritten and notebook bound to those covered in tooled leather and containing color illustrations, may be found in the History Room. All family histories come to the library by way of gift and many represent the product of research conducted in the History Room's holdings.

General Genealogical Source Materials

Cemetery listings, deed abstracts, indexes to court records, marriage bonds, voter registration lists, Heritage Books, county histories, etc. predominate in the History Room which attempts to be as comprehensive as possible when it comes to western North Carolina published genealogical source material

Civil War Microfilm Records

The National Archives microfilmed the compiled service records of all soldiers who served on both sides during the Civil War. These records show when and where a soldier signed up, how old he was, if he was captured, deserted, or wounded, and when he was sent home.

The History Room has the service records of all soldiers who fought for North Carolina units, both Union and Confederate. It also holds the service records of all Confederate Generals, staff officers, and non-regimental enlisted men along with the entire Confederate Navy and Marine Corps, as well as those of Confederate medical officers.

Also available to researchers are reels listing Confederates who died in Federal prisons and hospitals in the North and those from North Carolina who applied for pardons following the war. Related to these records are the complete Official Records of the War of the Rebellion, as well as the expected 100-volume supplement that is currently being published.

The History Room has the service records of all soldiers who fought for North Carolina units, both Union and Confederate. It also holds the service records of all Confederate Generals, staff officers, and non-regimental attached men along with the entire Confederate Navy and Marine Corps, as well as those of Confederate medical officers.

Also available to researchers are rosters listing Confederates who died in Federal prisons and hospitals in the North and those from North Carolina who applied for pensions following the war. Related to these records are the complete Official Records of the War of the Rebellion, as well as the expected 130-volume supplement that is currently being published.

Genealogical Manuscript Collections The History Room is actively collecting the research notes, correspondence, pedigree charts, family group sheets, etc. of professional genealogists or those researchers who go about collecting their ancestors in a big way. Included among these collections are the papers of Mrs. Jessie Earnhardt whose work concentrated on the German families of the western piedmont, Mrs. Pink Tatum who traced the area Tatums in great detail, Dr. Smith who compiled an assortment of family charts, research notes and correspondence pertaining to those families who migrated from Rowan County westward, and Mr. Robert Canup who is forever adding to his Canup/Kanup family database, a copy of which is maintained in the History Room.

Draper Manuscripts

Lyman Copeland Draper (1815-1891) was fascinated by early American history. Between 1843 and 1848, he traveled extensively throughout the southeast and middle states filling notebooks with his adventures and interviews. His one of a kind collection includes personal reminiscences of frontiersmen, soldiers and their descendents. He combined his transcripts with correspondence, maps, genealogies, private papers and many other resources. His entire collection contains over 400 volumes of material.

The History Room has the following collections from the Draper Manuscripts on microfilm: North Carolina Papers, Tennessee Papers, Draper's Life of Boone, Daniel Boone Papers, Rudolph-Ney Papers, King's Mountain Papers, and Mecklenburg Declaration, Papers & Miscellanies.

These materials were donated by the Genealogical Society of Rowan County.

1759 ROWAN COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA TAX LIST

This tax list was found between the walls of the old court house by Wm. D. Kizziah, Register of Deeds. When found, it was but scraps of paper, but was fitted together and transcribed by him. This list was made before Rowan Co, NC was divided into other counties and is the oldest tax list ever found in Rowan (to my knowledge). It contains no figures and is not typed here as copied. I have put the "a's" together, the "b's together, etc. When a slave or negro is listed with another's name, I left those names as they appeared on the typed list. Some names in the "b's" were torn off or could not be read. They are listed at the end of this page. There is a copy of this list, as transcribed by Mr. Kizziah, in the Rowan County Library, Salisbury, NC.

1750 BOONE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA TAX LIST

This tax list was found between the walls of the old court house by Mr. D. Rizzolo, Registrar of Deeds. When found, it was but scraps of paper, but was fitted together and transcribed by him. This list was made before Boone Co. NC was divided into other counties and is the oldest tax list ever found in Boone. See my Lockwood's. It contains no figures and is not typed here as copied. I have put the "s's" together, the "D's together, etc. When a slave or negro is listed with another's name, I left those names as they appeared on the typed list. Some names in the "D's" were torn out or could not be kept. They are listed at the end of this page. There is a copy of this list, as transcribed by Mr. Rizzolo, in the Boone County Library, Salisbury, NC.

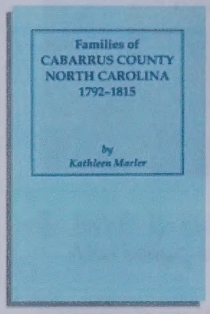
Families of Cabarrus County, North Carolina, 1792-1815

Kathleen Marler



Cabarrus County in south central North Carolina was formed in 1792 from Mecklenburg County and is today situated between Mecklenburg and Rowan counties. Mrs. Marler's new work on Cabarrus County is the first effort we know of to systematically present information on all families in that county from its inception until the end of the War of 1812. The author extracted her findings from the 1790 Mecklenburg County census, the 1800 Cabarrus census, court records, Mecklenburg county deed records, marriage records, wills, and newspaper obituaries. She has arranged the families alphabetically according to the surname of the head of each household, incorporating all available data and its source in an outline format. Whenever possible, Mrs. Marler embellishes the limited content from these early censuses with information such as the name(s) of neighboring families, persons who bought/sold land to the principal householder, details of a marriage, and so forth. In all, the volume identifies 2,000 early families in Cabarrus County and perhaps five times as many persons overall. Can there be any doubt that Families of Cabarrus County, North Carolina must be reckoned as the new starting point for research in this early North Carolina county?

Families of Cabarrus County, North Carolina, 1792-1845

Kathleen Martin

Cabarrus County in south central North Carolina was formed in 1792 from Mecklenburg County and is today situated between Mecklenburg and Rowan counties. Mrs. Martin's work on Cabarrus County is the first which we know of in systematically present information on all families in that county from its inception until the end of the War of 1812. The author extracted her findings from the 1790 Mecklenburg County census, the 1800 Cabarrus census, court records, Mecklenburg county deed records, marriage records, wills, and newspaper obituaries. She has arranged the families alphabetically according to the surnames of the head of each household, incorporating all available data and its source in an online format. Where a family has multiple surnames, Mrs. Martin has placed the family under the surname of the male head of household, providing all known variations of the surnames of the family members, among who through and to the deceased household, details of a marriage, and so forth. In all, the volume identifies 2,000 early families in Cabarrus County and perhaps five times as many persons. Can there be any doubt that Families of Cabarrus County, North Carolina must be rediscovered as the new starting point for research in this early North Carolina county?

IREDELL COUNTY NORTH CAROLINA

Iredell County was formed in 1788 from Rowan County, and was named for James Iredell (1751-1799), Attorney General of NC during the Revolution and a delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1788. He was one of the leaders of the State advocating the adoption of the Federal Constitution. Washington appointed him a judge of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1790. Iredell County is in the central section of the State and is bounded by Rowan, Cabarrus, Mecklenburg, Lincoln, Catawba, Alexander, Wilkes, Yadkin and Davie counties. The present land area is 574.13 square miles and the 1990 population was 92,935. Statesville, established in 1789, is the county seat. If you're researching early settlers in Iredell County, you'll also want to look at Rowan County resources.
